(2) enhance the refundable tax credit for senior assistance and abolish the refundable tax credit for seniors' activities;

(3) broaden eligibility for the additional deduction for transportation costs incurred by remote small and medium-sized businesses and for the income-averaging mechanism of forest producers;

(4) renew the refundable tax credits aimed at encouraging the creation of new financial services corporations; and

(5) strengthen tax compliance as regards cryptoassets.

The Act constituting Capital régional et coopératif Desjardins is amended to ensure that certain investments made to increase the supply of affordable housing are recognized for the purposes of the investment requirement provided for in that Act.

The Tobacco Tax Act is amended to increase the specific tax rates on tobacco products.

The Act respecting the Régie de l'assurance maladie du Québec is amended to increase the exemption amounts used in computing the premium payable by a person subject to the public prescription drug insurance plan.

In addition, the Taxation Act and the Act respecting the Québec sales tax, among others, are amended to make amendments similar to those made to the Income Tax Act and the Excise Tax Act by federal bills assented to in 2022. More specifically, the amendments deal with

(1) the tax-free first home savings account;

(3) the flipping of residential immovable property;

“CHAPTER V

“TRANSFERS AND VARIOUS PROVISIONS

“935.38. The rules set out in the second paragraph apply where an amount is transferred at a particular time from a first home savings account (in this section referred to as the “transferor account”) and the following conditions are met:

(a) the amount is transferred for the benefit of an individual who

i. is the holder of the transferor account, ii. is a spouse or former spouse of the holder of the transferor account, where the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, relating to a partition of property between the holder and the individual in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage, or

iii. is entitled to the amount as a consequence of the death of the holder of the transferor account if the individual was the spouse of the holder of the transferor account immediately before the death;

(b) the amount is transferred directly to another first home savings account of the individual or a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant; and

(c) where the transfer is not made to another first home savings account of the holder of the transferor account, the amount does not exceed the amount by which the total fair market value, immediately before the particular time, of all property held as part of a first home savings account under which the holder of the transferor account is a holder exceeds the excess FHSA amount, within the meaning assigned by subsection 1 of section 207.01 of the Income Tax Act (Revised Statutes of Canada, 1985, chapter 1, 5th Supplement), of the holder of the transferor account at the particular time.

The rules to which the first paragraph refers are as follows:

(a) the amount transferred in accordance with the first paragraph must not, by reason only of such transfer, be included in computing the income of any taxpayer; and

(b) no deduction may be made in computing the income of any taxpayer in respect of the amount so transferred.

“935.39. Where an amount is transferred from a first home savings account (in this section referred to as the “transferor account”) to another first home savings account, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund and section 935.38 does not apply in respect of the amount transferred, the amount is deemed to have been paid from the transferor account for the benefit of the holder of that account.

“935.40. Where an amount is transferred from a first home savings account to another first home savings account, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund and the first paragraph of section 935.38 applies only in respect of a portion of the amount transferred, the rules set out in the second paragraph of section 935.38 apply only in respect of that portion and section 935.39 applies in respect of the difference.

“935.41. Where, at any time in a taxation year, a trust governed by a first home savings account uses or permits to be used any property of the trust as security for a loan, the individual who is the holder of the account at that time shall include, in computing the individual’s income for the year, the fair market value of the property at the time it commenced to be so used.

“935.42. Where, in a taxation year, a loan for which a trust governed by a first home savings account has used or permitted to be used trust property as security ceases to be extant and the fair market value of the property so used was included, under section 935.41, in computing the income of the individual who is the holder of the account, the individual may deduct, in computing the individual’s income for the year, the amount by which the amount so included in computing the individual's income in consequence of the trust's using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan exceeds the net loss sustained by the trust in consequence of such use.

The loss referred to in the first paragraph does not include payments made by the trust as interest or a change in the fair market value of the property.

“935.43. If the holder of a first home savings account dies and the holder's survivor is designated as the successor holder of the account, the survivor is, immediately after the time of death, deemed to have entered into a new qualifying arrangement in respect of the first home savings account unless

(a) the survivor is a qualifying individual and the balance of the first home savings account is transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund of the survivor, or distributed to the survivor in accordance with section 935.44, by the end of the calendar year following the year of death; or

(b) the survivor is not a qualifying individual, in which case the balance of the first home savings account is to be transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund of the survivor, or distributed to the survivor in accordance with section 935.44, by the end of the calendar year following the year of death.

“935.44. Where the holder of a first home savings account dies, the amount from that account that is distributed because of the death, in a taxation year, to, or for the benefit of, a beneficiary in relation to that account must be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the year.

“935.45. Where an amount from the first home savings account of a deceased holder is distributed at a particular time to the holder's legal representative and a survivor of the holder is entitled to all or a portion of the amount in full or partial satisfaction of the survivor's rights as a person beneficially interested under the holder's succession, the following rules apply:

(a) if a payment is made from the succession to a first home savings account, a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund of the survivor, the payment is deemed to be a transfer from the account to the extent that

i. it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the survivor in the prescribed form filed with the Minister, and

ii. it meets the conditions to be a transferred amount in accordance with any of sections 935.38 to 935.40;

(b) if a payment is made from the succession to the survivor, the payment is deemed for the purposes of section 935.44 to be a distribution to the survivor as a beneficiary to the extent that it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the survivor in the prescribed form filed with the Minister; and

(c) for the purposes of section 935.44, the amount distributed to the legal representative from the first home savings account is deemed to be reduced by the amounts designated in accordance with paragraphs a and b.

“935.46. An arrangement ceases to qualify as a first home savings account at the time specified in paragraph b of subsection 16 of section 146.6 of the Income Tax Act (Revised Statutes of Canada, 1985, chapter 1, 5th Supplement) or, if such time is not determined in accordance with that paragraph, at the earliest of the following times:

- (b) the end of the calendar year following the year of the death of the last holder;
- (c) the time at which the arrangement ceases to be a qualifying arrangement; or
- (d) the time at which the arrangement ceases to be administered in accordance with the conditions in subsection 2 of section 146.6 of the Income Tax Act.

“935.47. Where an arrangement ceases at a particular time to be a first home savings account, the following rules apply:

- (a) section 935.31 does not apply to exempt the trust governed by the arrangement from tax under this Part on the taxable income of the trust earned after the particular time;
- (b) if the taxpayer who was the holder under the arrangement immediately before it ceased to be a first home savings account is not deceased at the particular time, an amount equal to the fair market value of all property of the arrangement immediately before the particular time is to be included in computing the taxpayer’s income for the taxation year that includes the particular time; and
- (c) if the last holder is deceased at the particular time, each beneficiary of the first home savings account shall include in computing his or her income, for the taxation year that includes the particular time, the proportion of the fair market value of all property of the arrangement immediately before the particular time that the beneficiary is entitled to.”
