EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Act contains various provisions whose main purpose is to reduce the regulatory and administrative burden on enterprises.

The Act simplifies a number of provisions relating to alcoholic beverages, in particular by eliminating the delivery permit, by allowing public transportation carriers to store and transport alcoholic beverages and by authorizing restaurant permit holders to serve or sell, for take out or delivery, alcohol- or spirits-based alcoholic beverages defined by regulation. It reduces the frequency of reporting by small-scale production permit holders, simplifies the provisions relating to the stickers that such permit holders must affix, and allows them to use another producer's raw materials in cases of superior force. It also introduces greater flexibility with respect to the tasting of alcoholic beverages and the identification of their containers.

The Act prescribes the payment of an increase determined by the Société des alcools du Québec for the sale of wine produced by holders of a small-scale production permit to holders of a grocery permit. It limits the volume of alcohol and spirits made from cereal grains, potatoes or whey that small-scale producers may sell annually. It amends various provisions relating to inspections and investigations and broadens the system of monetary administrative penalties provided for by the Act respecting the Société des alcools du Québec.

In addition, the Act abolishes all specific standards for publicity contests, including the standard imposing the payment of duties to the Régie des alcools, des courses et des jeux for the holding of such contests.

The Act facilitates the harmonization of the construction and safety standards applicable to buildings in Québec. To that end, it amends the Building Act, in particular to ensure that only more stringent standards may be adopted by municipalities in those matters and to standardize the application of certain provisions regarding public safety. It grants the Régie du bâtiment du Québec the power to determine, by regulation, the powers that municipalities may exercise to verify the application in their territory of standards prescribed in the Construction Code and the Safety Code and which municipalities must verify the application of such standards in certain cases.

The Act amends certain requirements relating to names of enterprises and ends the obligation for certain employers to produce an annual declaration of eligible training activities.

The Act amends the Sustainable Forest Development Act to grant the minister responsible for the administration of that Act the power to suspend the right granted by a supply guarantee to a holder whose plant has discontinued its operations for more than six months and to empower the Bureau de mise en marché des bois to assess the value of eligible protection and development expenses. It also amends the Mining Act to allow the extension of non-exclusive leases for the mining of surface mineral substances.

The Act also amends Acts concerning municipal affairs, in particular with regard to budgets, the three-year capital expenditure program, the auditing of financial statements, and contracts to improve the energy efficiency of equipment and infrastructure.

The Act makes certain amendments with respect to the publication of rights, in particular to reduce the publication period for allowing certain rights to be set up against third persons.

The Act eliminates certain formalities relating to various licences, mainly by removing the renewal requirement for personnel placement agency licences, temporary foreign worker recruitment agency licences and labour-referral service licences in the construction industry.

The Act amends the Act respecting contracting by public bodies with respect to the declaration of integrity.

Lastly, the Act makes consequential amendments and contains transitional provisions.
