EXPLANATORY NOTES

The purpose of this Act is to modernize the construction industry. To that end, it provides for amendments to the Act respecting labour relations, vocational training and workforce management in the construction industry in order to amend the rules relating to the operation of the collective bargaining system in the construction industry. The time limit for various steps in the process leading to the renewal of collective agreements is moved forward. In addition, the Act creates a requirement for the representative associations, the sector-based employers' association and the employers' association to transmit in writing to the other parties, at the beginning of the negotiation process, their requests, offers and proposals on all the matters that may be the subject of negotiations.

The Act introduces the possibility for parties to negotiate the payment of retroactive compensation adjustments for employees. The Act also provides for a proceeding before the Administrative Labour Tribunal in the case of a failure by one of the parties to the negotiation to fulfil the obligation to negotiate with dispatch and in good faith.

The Act amends certain rules relating to the governance of the Commission de la construction du Québec. It revises the Commission's role and responsibilities by eliminating the obligation to obtain the Commission's authorization before resorting to grievance arbitration in cases of disagreement on the interpretation of a clause of a collective agreement.

The Act also creates a committee on labour relations in the construction industry, made up exclusively of representatives of employers' associations and representatives of associations representing employees, and it provides for the functions of the committee, its composition and its method of operation.

The Act introduces a regulatory power for the Commission de la construction du Québec to determine the standards and procedure for the recognition of training and of diplomas issued outside Québec.

While preserving the rules establishing a regional preference for hiring provided for in the Regulation respecting the hiring and mobility of employees in the construction industry, the Act prohibits, from 1 May 2025, unions and management from agreeing, in collective agreements, on clauses that restrict the mobility of an employee who may be assigned, under a regulation, anywhere in Québec or that would have the effect of restricting an employer's freedom to hire such an employee.

The Act allows an Indigenous entity that has entered into an agreement with the Government, with the Kativik Regional Government, with the Cree Nation Government or with the Eeyou Istchee James Bay Regional Government to become the holder of a labour referral service licence.

The Act amends the Regulation respecting the vocational training of the workforce in the construction industry in order to increase versatility in the work organization of workers in certain construction trades. The Act thus introduces into that Regulation the conditions allowing for the implementation of the principle of versatility, while explicitly specifying the work and trades to which such versatility may not apply.

The Act proposes various regulatory amendments to promote access to the construction industry for persons who are representative of the diversity of Québec society, namely, Indigenous persons, members of visible or ethnic minorities, immigrants and persons with disabilities.

The Act amends the Regulation respecting the Service de référence de main-d'œuvre de l'industrie de la construction, in particular by allowing, between employers and associations holding a licence, communications with regard to any clarification relating to labour needs.

Lastly, the Act provides for a revision of the amounts of fines in cases of the contravention of the Act respecting labour relations, vocational training and workforce management in the construction industry. It also contains consequential amendments and transitional and final provisions.
