EXPLANATORY NOTES

The first purpose of this Act is to streamline the regulatory processes of the professional system.

To that end, the Act allows the professional orders to adopt certain regulations without the approval of the Office des professions du Québec or of the Government, to the extent that they take into account the guidelines established by the Office in collaboration with the Québec Interprofessional Council. It provides that, from now on, the Office, and no longer the Government, will be entrusted with responsibility for approving certain regulations of the professional orders, including the codes of ethics and the regulations concerning authorization for non-members to engage in professional activities. It allows the professional orders to give themselves, in the latter regulations, the power to establish, by resolution, terms and conditions according to which the activities may be engaged in. Furthermore, the Act transfers to the Office the power to determine, in a regulation subject to government approval, the diplomas that give access to a permit or a specialist's certificate. It also provides that the Office must adopt a regulation applicable to all professional orders as regards accounts conciliation and arbitration and gives the Office the power to adopt, in any matter that may be the subject of a regulation of a professional order and on the recommendation of the Interprofessional Council, a regulation that is binding on one or more professional orders or their members.

The Act provides that the Office alone is responsible for determining the standards of ethics and professional conduct applicable to members of the boards of directors of the professional orders, and adds to its functions those of making inquiries concerning conduct that may contravene those standards and of imposing the appropriate penalties. It also adds certain information to that which the rolls of the professional orders must contain and entrusts the latter with the power to determine by resolution any other information their rolls are to contain.

A further purpose of the Act is to broaden professional practices in the field of health and social services.

To that end, the Act amends the Nurses Act to allow nurses to initiate examinations and tests in the cases determined by regulation, and no longer only as part of activities under the Public Health Act.

It also allows nurses to prescribe, in the cases and on the conditions determined by regulation, examinations and tests, medications and other substances as well as products and dressings. The Act also provides that certain specialized nurse practitioners may, after completing training and on certain conditions determined by regulation, be authorized to establish diagnoses of mental disorders, excluding intellectual disabilities.

The Act broadens the cases in which midwives may prescribe and administer contraceptives. It also broadens the scope of their intervention in the taking in charge of sexually transmitted and blood-borne infections. In addition, the Act allows midwives, for the purpose of giving the professional care and services referred to in the Midwives Act, to prescribe, conduct or interpret an examination or analysis. They are also now allowed to continue breastfeeding follow-up beyond the six-week period after childbirth and for as long as the breastfeeding continues.

In addition, the Act eliminates certain restrictions relating to the medications optometrists, podiatrists and midwives may prescribe and administer as well as to the care optometrists may provide. The Act updates the field of practice of dietician-nutritionists and allows the latter to engage in professional activities reserved to them without a medical prescription being required. It also allows respiratory therapists to initiate examinations and tests in the cases and according to the terms and conditions prescribed by a regulation of the Ordre des inhalothérapeutes.

The Act puts an end to the activities of the Conseil consultatif interdisciplinaire sur l'exercice de la psychothérapie. It authorizes marriage and family therapists to practise psychotherapy without holding a specific permit for that purpose, just as psychologists and physicians are allowed to do. It confers on the Office the power to authorize the persons it indicates to engage in certain activities, during their training, from among the activities that a holder of a psychotherapist's permit may engage in. It also confers on the Office the power to make regulations governing the issue of a psychotherapist's permit to holders of legal authorizations issued elsewhere in Canada and amends the Professional Code to allow persons having obtained the permit in accordance with those regulations to practise psychotherapy in Québec.

Other amendments are made to the Professional Code and to certain Acts relating to professions. In particular, the Act changes the minimum number of signatures of members of an order that is required to call a special general meeting. It removes from the definition of what constitutes the practice of the profession of agrologist the condition that an act must be performed for remuneration. It also makes amendments to the rules respecting the governance of certain orders, in particular by providing for the abolition of the sections of the Ordre des agronomes du Québec and of the Ordre des infirmières et infirmiers du Québec. The Act also amends the Professional Chemists Act by adding a field of practice and a list of activities reserved to chemists and by requiring the Ordre professionnel des chimistes du Québec to adopt a regulation concerning the professional activities that may be engaged in by a professional technologist whose competency is in chemistry technology.

Furthermore, the Act provides for certain adaptations to the standards governing the medication supply chain, in particular those concerning relations between pharmacists, drug manufacturers, drug wholesalers, and pharmacy banners and chains. To that end, it amends the Pharmacy Act to grant the Government the power to determine the cases in which and conditions on which a pharmacist may prescribe or substitute for a prescribed medication a medication manufactured by an undertaking in which the pharmacist has an interest, and it enacts a regulation providing for such cases and conditions. It also enacts, for the purposes of the Act respecting prescription drug insurance, a regulation authorizing a drug manufacturer to grant certain benefits to an intermediary, including a pharmacy banner or chain, and it amends the Regulation respecting the conditions governing the accreditation of manufacturers and wholesalers of medications to, in particular, allow the same benefits to be paid by a manufacturer to a wholesaler and to establish certain standards specific to drug manufacturers control of which is held by pharmacists. In addition, it amends the Act respecting prescription drug insurance in order to establish the discretionary nature of the power to grant accreditation to a drug manufacturer or wholesaler under that Act.

Lastly, the Act contains consequential provisions as well as various transitional and final measures.

“Sections 14.1 to 14.3 apply to an inquiry carried out by the Office in accordance with that regulation.”

3. The Code is amended by inserting the following sections after section 12.0.1:

“12.0.1.1. The Office may, by regulation, determine the diplomas issued by the educational institutions it indicates which give access to a permit or specialist’s certificate.

The Office may also, by regulation, fix the terms and conditions of cooperation between an order and the authorities of the educational institutions referred to in a regulation made under the first paragraph, in particular in the development and review of the programs of study leading to a diploma giving access to a permit or specialist’s certificate, the standards that the board of directors is required to establish by a regulation made under paragraph c of section 93 and, where applicable, the other terms and conditions that the board of directors may determine by a regulation made under subparagraph i of the first paragraph of section 94, as well as the standards of equivalence of such terms and conditions that the board of directors may determine under that regulation.

The regulation referred to in the second paragraph may prescribe the terms of cooperation, between the order and the educational institutions, applicable to a program of study leading to a diploma that leads to a training certificate issued pursuant to a regulation made under subparagraph o.1 of the first paragraph of section 94 or under an Act constituting a professional order.

The Office must, before making a regulation referred to in this section, consult

The regulation may specify the fees payable to the order on applying for arbitration. In such a case, the arbitration council must rule on the reimbursement of such fees.

The regulation may also contain provisions which, when all or part of the account in dispute is maintained or when a reimbursement is granted, enable the council of arbitration to add interest and an indemnity, computed in accordance with articles 1618 and 1619 of the Civil Code, from the date of the application for conciliation.

The arbitration council may, in particular, consider the quality of the services rendered in relation to the fees charged.

A member may not institute proceedings in respect of an account until the time allowed to apply for conciliation has expired.
